Selectmen's Report

Throughout the years Mt. Washington's influence has been felt in Randolph and surrounding communities. The opening of the Carriage Road in 1861 helped in the inevitable transformation of marginal farming communities to recreational areas. It is now history that following the Civil War farming moved to the west. Gradually the White Mountain area began to realize new wealth in its natural scenic beauty. Farm houses began to take in summer boarders and, as the word spread, more rooms were added to accommodate this new crop. Eventually some of these original farm houses developed into sizeable Inns catering mostly to the hikers who found the virgin forests enchanting and the summits a challenge.

As a result of the opening of the road new business enterprises developed. Trips to the summit by horse-drawn mountain wagons were extremely popular and quite a number of the local residents found themselves in the livery business. Laban Watson, who operated the Ravine House, was quick to recognize the value to his Inn of such excursions. In those days it was quite a trip—guests were routed out of bed early in the morning, fed a hearty breakfast and with lunches packed the night before boarded a wagon drawn by six horses and set out for their adventure by way of the Dolly Copp road. Up the Peabody valley to the Glen House and old Toll House and the beginning of the Carriage Road. If all went well they arrived back at The Ravine House in early evening tired, hungry, happy and full of mountain experiences that were told over and over again.

There were, of course, those who looked with disdain upon anyone who would ascend the mountain on anything but their own two feet. (We might add that time has not changed things much in this respect). Consequently a network of trails were built to the surrounding summits with Mt. Washington the focal point. In the 1890's J. Rayner Edmonds constructed the Randolph Path. With an eye to even grades it began at the Randolph Station, slabbing the lower slopes of Gordon and Durand Ridges, crossing just below the floor of Kings Ravine and ever climbing, but never steeply, swung around Nowell's Ridge to the west, skirting Cascade Ravine to Edmunds Col (between Mts. Adams and Jefferson). Here it connected with the Gulf-side Trail, from this point to the summit of Mt. Washington the trail is entirely above tree line, and magnificent views are to be had on every hand. To this day this route to the summit of Mt. Washington, although long, is the most even grade of all. Of course there were many other early Randolph path builders, Charles E. Lowe, Peek, Cook and Watson to mention a few. Later the Randolph Mountain Club was formed and continues to maintain the trails constructed by these early builders and many others.

Naturally there was a time before trails, signs and guidebooks. During this period a number of Randolph residents attained considerable notoriety and summer employment as mountain guides. At that time Charles E. Lowe was often referred to as the Dean of North Country Guides. One of his sons, Vyron, followed in his footsteps. As an interesting anecdote, Vyron's wife Winnie tells us of the time she met her husband on the summit of Mt. Washington at the termination of one of his guiding trips. It was in July of 1897, and Winnie was 22 years old. She borrowed a horse and buggy from a neighbor, Gene Hunt, and made the trip alone from Randolph to the summit. Quite a feat for a young woman of those days for many were the tales of horses becoming frightened by bears on the Dolly Copp road, of run-ways and overturned wagons. How frequent were the bear exploits is perhaps questionable, but a much more common hazard to vehicles drawn by spirited horses was the mother ruffed grouse who, in valiant protection of her brood, would frequently fly in the faces of the oncoming team.

The opening of the road created new demands for services and materials which, in part, was supplied by the surrounding communities. Farmers found a new market for hay, grain and produce to feed the ever increasing numbers of teams and their passengers. One enterprising Randolphian, Kellsey by name, had a contract for several years to supply and deliver charcoal to the summit. The local hardwood forests supplied the material from which this light weight and nearly smokeless fuel could be produced.

We feel it fitting on this the 100th birthday of the Mt. Washington Carriage Road to devote space in our Town Reports in cooperation with this centennial celebration. The Carriage Road has been a major factor in the growth of vacation business in Randolph and adjacent communities. We join in a hearty "Happy Birthday" to the Mt. Washington Carriage Road, and a cordial invitation to one and all to visit this unique attraction this summer.

The pictures contained in this report are from The Shorey Studio. We are again indebted to Guy L. Shorey for their use and his helpful cooperation.

This past year has seen changes in ownership, new construction and improvements in existing homes. New home owners include Rev. and Mrs. Robert L. Edwards who purchased the former home of Col. and Mrs. W. Breyton. The Edwards have added substantially to the size of the original house and moved in during the Christmas holidays. Dr. and Mrs. J. Kenneth Arsenault purchased the former home of Mr. Merrill Shurtleff, Mr. and Mrs. Auvern Kennison purchased the house and barn on the south side of U.S. route 2, from Mr. Harry Sweet.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cairns have nearly completed a new summer home just east of Mr. Alvan Davis' cottage.

Major additions and improvements on existing homes were made by Mr. and Mrs. Armand Martin and Mr. Rupert Corrigan.

A hearty welcome to our new home owners and year round residents and congratulations on the home improvements accomplished this past year.

As a result of the major road construction on Gorham Hill it was necessary to move the Randolph Church. Moved back 100 feet from its former location, we think it will be very picturesque in its new setting with a similar stone wall and gate facing the road.

Appalachia Station and old Ravine House—Many trips to the Carriage Road and Mt. Washington started from here.

Top Center—One of the many panoramic views from the Carriage Road—this one looking north and east—the Carter and Mahoosuc Ranges and the Androscoggin Valley.

Left Center—Then, as now, some unusual costumes are seen on the top of Mt. Washington—Note top hat, beards and man with blanket.

Bottom—The way folks arrived at the base of the mountain in the old days.

During the past year our library has been given two fine collections of books. One is the Randolph Library of Irving Crosby of Cambridge, Mass; this was left to the town in Mr. Crosby's will. The other is a White Mountain collection formerly owned by John D. Sherman of Mount Vernon, New York, and given to our library by his daughter, Mrs. George Engelhardt.

Both of these collections will prove to be of interest to our readers.

Report of the Superintendent

To the School Board and Citizens of the Randolph School District

FOREWORD

The foreword of my report this year consists primarily of the philosophy and objectives of Gorham High School as formulated by the staff, and approved by the school board and administration. The reason for this statement of policy is that the school will be evaluated this spring by the New England Secondary School Association, of which Gorham is a member. Each member school must be evaluated once in each ten years to retain its membership. The evaluation is based on the principles stated in the philosophy and objectives, and will cover each area of the curriculum, the school and community, student activities, library and audio-visual services, guidance services, health services, the school plant, and the school staff and administration. It is felt that the philosophy and objectives should be of sufficient interest to each one to have them printed in full.

GORHAM HIGH SCHOOL PHILOSOPHY

We believe that it is the responsibility of the school to provide the opportunity for individuals to exercise the right to seek an education consistent with the fundamental concepts of American democracy.

We believe that the school should provide the student the opportunity to seek an education consistent with his own aptitudes, abilities, interests, and needs.

We believe that since school exists because of the community, the school should prepare the student in keeping with the needs of the community. Among those needs is the academic preparation of a large percentage of the students who leave the community for post-secondary study and the meeting of the needs of those individuals who terminate their education with high school.

We believe that the school should not limit itself to the intellectual development of the individual but must also concern itself with the physical, social, emotional, and moral growth of the student.

We believe that the most important consideration of the school is the student; that the teacher should, in his organization and presentation of the course of study, keep this in view; and that the administration should, through organization and supervision, coordinate the program of instruction to meet the student needs.

We believe that student promotion should be contingent upon satisfactory completion of standards relative to his level of instruction.

We believe that co-curricular activities are essential for the social, physical, emotional, and cultural development of the student.

The Gorham High School philosophy of secondary education may be summarized briefly as follows: We believe that the school must meet the widely divergent skills and interests of the individuals within the total school environment. We believe that this can be accomplished only when the school provides through its program, services, and staff, ample diversity to allow secondary school education to have real meaning for every student.

GORHAM HIGH SCHOOL OBJECTIVES

We Believe That It Is The Purpose Of The School:

1. To provide instruction and experiences consistent with the fundamental concepts of American democracy and citizenship.

2. To provide suitable instruction by assigning teachers to subject matter areas in which they have adequate preparation.

3. To provide curriculum diversity to suit the needs and interests of the individual student. This diversity to include academic and general preparation in the areas of college preparatory, business, industrial arts, and home economics.

4. To provide academic experiences for the students in preparation for post-secondary education.

5. To provide some meaningful experiences which will benefit those students whose education will terminate at the secondary school level. To meet this need the curriculum should offer courses in the areas of business, industrial arts and home making.

6. To provide through a program which includes art, music, and drama, a means of developing an appreciation of our cultural heritage.

7. To provide experiences which will develop within the student ideals of good sportsmanship, responsibility, leadership, health and hygiene through co-curricular activities.

8. To provide for the health, safety, and sanitation of all students through such courses as biology, driver education, physical education, and home making; and through contact with safety-sanitation measures in the school plant, bus transportation and cafeteria services.

9. To provide for the physical well being of the student through periodic physical examinations by the school doctor and school nurse, and through the existence of facilities necessary for the administering of emergency first aid measures.

BUDGET

The budget for 1961-62 proposed by the School Board will be $15,267.09, as compared to $17,630.90 last year. The sum of $15,630.90 was voted last year, but $500 was added for kindergarten tuition and $1,500 was put into a capital reserve fund for replacement of the school bus by special articles. You will notice that the actual amount asked to be raised by taxation will be nearly $700 less than last year.

WARRANT

Two special articles will be acted upon at the annual meeting. The first calls for putting $1,500 of the estimated balance in the budget immediately into the capital reserve fund for the school bus. If this is voted, we will have $3,000 in that fund by the end of the month.

The second special article, if passed favorably, will authorize the School Board to borrow by serial notes, a sum not to exceed $2,000 for a period of two years. This sum will be combined with the $3,000 in the capital reserve fund, giving sufficient funds to purchase a new bus if the School Board feels it is wise and necessary. The present bus will be six years old at the end of the year and will have traveled more than 60,000 miles. It is felt that the trade-in value of the bus will be greater this year than if we wait until next year.

The reason why the money is to be raised by serial notes is that it evens the tax assessment out over a period of two years, rather than having a large appropriation in one year for this purpose.

TUITION

At the present time there are forty-two pupils attending the Gorham School on a tuition basis. This includes 4 in kindergarten, 26 in grades 1-8 and 12 in high school. This total is about six less than last year, and represents a savings in our budget of nearly $1,800. Next year the number will total thirty-eight, 3 in kindergarten, 26 in grades 1-8 and 8 in high school.

By law the tuition rates are established as follows: the receiving District can change the state average costs for the previous year or its own per pupil cost, whichever is lower. Transportation and tuition items will not be figured in determining these costs. The following are the costs for the past year, 1959-60 for Gorham and the state's average estimated cost for 1960-61:

	Gorham's per pupil cost	State Ave. cost
High School	$451.22	$436.00
Elementary	262.10	265.00

In addition to the figures, $436.00 and $262.10, a 2% rental charge is allowed by law for capital expenses. The rental charge, which is determined as a per pupil depreciation allowance, is figured out to be $19.69 for high school and $14.31 for elementary school. This represents a reduction of 30 cents a pupil in high school and 21 cents for each elementary school child from last year. The Gorham School Board have set the tuition rates for 1961-62 as follows:

High School	$450.00 ($35.00 more than last year)
Elementary (Grade 1-8)	275.00 ($20.00 more than last year)
Kindergarten	125.00 (Same as last year)

The above information was reviewed with the Randolph School Board. Due to the decreased number of tuition pupils, the total amount to be raised for tuition purposes is about $1,000 less than last year. The future number of tuition pupils in town should continue to show a slight decline during the next few years, unless new families move into the District.
